09:15 – 10:00 Chief Economist address: Global trade at a crossroads: navigating fragmentation and uncertainty

This session provides an overview of the current state of global trade and its challenges. It examines key trends such as the slowing pace of globalisation, trade fragmentation, and rising economic policy uncertainties. The discussion focuses on the implications of geopolitical tensions, trade wars, and the realignment of international trade relationships. It also highlights disruptive forces like technology, cultural shifts, and the declining efficiency of global governance. The session aims to explore how these dynamics are shaping global trade and their potential long-term economic impacts and will also examine the profound influence of geopolitical events on private funds, highlighting their role in shaping investment strategies and altering market dynamics.

Speaker:

Janet Henry, Global Chief Economist, HSBC

10:00 – 10:30 Keynote presentation: The future of trade

This session explores the future of trade and trade financing through the lens of a large global bank with extensive presence in global trade ecosystem experiencing veracious shifts in trading patterns, emerging megatrends and the innovation opportunities in the world of trade.

Speaker:

12:20 – 12:50 Case study: How trade finance is being invested into? Innovative/notable transactional case studies

Over the past decade, dedicated trade finance private funds have made significant inroads in the trade finance industry. Historically, there has been a 'lost in translation' barrier between the trade finance and institutional investor industries that has been difficult to unravel. Private funds are now being ever more flexible accommodating the trade finance industry needs in order to access the asset flow and accommodate the demanding institutional investor requirements. This session will cover the different structures private investors are using to facilitate the investment flows between trade finance and institutional investors.

- a. Loan syndications
- b. Private securitisation
- c. Bilateral purchase – MRPA & MARA
- d. Note issuance

Speakers:

Bertrand de Comminges, Global Head Trade Finance Investments, Managing Director, Santander Alternative Investments, SGCI; Co-chair ITFIE Working Group, ITFA

Mayer Brown representative

Agenda

12:50 – 13:30 Panel: The evolving role of trade finance in the private funds landscape

As trade finance makes inroads in the institutional investor landscape, the past decade has seen the advent of specialised trade finance private funds that have realised tenths of billions of dollars of investments and attracted investors such as pension funds, insurance companies, corporates, family offices and high net worth individuals. This panel will discuss the ways in which private funds are attracting trade finance assets into their portfolios and, sharing their expertise with investors that traditionally had avoided investing in trade finance.

- Which structure is in their opinion the most efficient for accessing trade finance asset flows?
- Which type of entities are the most interested in investing in trade finance?
- What are the typical demands of an institutional investor when investing in trade finance?
- Are private funds a direct competitor of trade finance banks? Of factoring companies? What about NBFIs supporting SMEs?
- What is the usual substitute product for a trade finance institutional investor?
- Do you think the trade finance will keep growing? Where do you expect the private fund management industry end in a decade from now?

Moderator:

16:50 – 17:30 Panel: De-risking SME trade assets to deliver high-yield transactions to institutional investors

Focusing on the rising role of data-driven insights and inventory management, this panel examines ways to transform SME-to-SME trade flows into low-risk high-yield investment opportunities for institutional investors. Experts will delve into how high-yield assets are originated in the SME-to-SME space, spotlighting innovative ways to increase transaction transparency and collateral management, thereby mitigating fraud and credit risks. Discussions will cover risk and fraud mitigation techniques such as embedding finance into supply chain operations, aligning payments with trade flows and enriching transactions with specific legal documentation. The panel will also address critical aspects such as recovery management.

- Enriching SME transactions to increase attractiveness for institutional investors
- Transforming high-yield assets into low-risk opportunities for institutional investors
- Combining supply chain management and supply chain finance
- Legal options supporting recoveries.
